

PARTNER with

Proven to improve student and family relationships with reading and schools, increase students' critical thinking and reading behaviors, and parents' confidence as a source of learning for their students.

Approved LDOE Vendor: CLSD funds and any other source allowable for literacy family engagement can be used.

PRIME TIME

Library of Congress Literacy Awards, 2017 honoree

Family Reading & Preschool Reading

Groups of up to 30 participants attend six 90 minute weekly sessions. When in person, each session includes a healthy and free meal. Virtually, the format is inclusive and immersive to overcome screen fatigue and engage each family and student.

Family Box & Preschool Box

Prime Time Preschool and Family Boxes provide the Prime Time experience "in a box" for use in the home, complete with a set of humanities-themed books, related activities, and a "Grown-up Guide" as an extension to participation at school or in its place.

Prime Time HomeRoom

Our professional development for educators (and families) complements and expands on Prime Time's humanities methodology, grounded in participant-centered instruction and collective learning strategies promoting respectful and diverse audiences. HomeRoom is fully customizable for school needs and family members who want to dig deeper.

504.523.4352

www.primetimefamily.org

primetime@leh.org

@primetimeread

Prime Time's model is simple and turnkey: It allows parents to fully inhabit their role as their student's primary educator while partnering with schools to support student literacy goals. School site staff are trained to lead sessions with a humanities lens by modeling story-sharing strategies with high-quality children's books and facilitating engaging discussions on each story's themes. Virtual, in person, and stand-alone options are available, as well as professional development opportunities.